EXPERIENCE

Side projects

l2energy.hu - design, site build

This new company dealing with algorithmic trading in the energy market wanted a serious looking website and brand with a scientific feel. They were quite satisfied with the result.

Webtown 2018 - ongoing

a1.si - frontend development

The Slovenian telecommunication company needed a new vendor to help them with redesign and infrastructure challenges. I was part of the team as a frontend developer.

events.ksaa.gov.sa - full stack development

The King Salman's Academy for the Arabic Language wanted to create a new event organiser platform for their language hackathons. I was focusing mainly on frontend tasks, although I helped also designing the service layer too as this was a complex system of intertwining user groups, permissions and event milestones.

ksaa.gov.sa - UI design, frontend development

The King Salman's Academy for the Arabic Language commissioned their outdated website's overhaul. I stepped in as designer in this project and later delivered the frontend development.

uniga.hu - frontend development

kbc.ie - frontend development

msci.com - frontend development

Codecool 2015 - 2018

I was around for the first few years of the programming school not only as a student, but as a designer, preparing various printing and web materials and branding guides.

Freelance graphic design 2012 - 2015
